

①

Many moons ago there was a good plumber called Dequan Demetri III. He had just finished fixing pipes. He picked up his salary of thirty pence and walked away from his moody boss.

The next day his boss came to him and fired him. Dequan Demetri III had a marvellous plan.

He was going to be a fake plumber. and steal a special rock from a mythical land.

His plan of the fake plumber worked, he pushed himself down a toilet pipe. Finally, he got there in the end. He couldn't believe his eyes. He was in a land none no one had laid eyes on here.

He had a long tiring walk before he found the rock. After a while he found the resource he was looking for. "I've finally found it!" said Dequan Demetri III. He ran to a pegasus and jumped on it. The pegasus flapped its wings and flew. He shouted "URIKA!" He jumped off the pegasus lost his clothes but he didn't care. All he cared about was the rock. He ran around the land naked. He found the disgusting toilet and flushed himself back to the earth. The rock shined and glowed in his very eyes. He loved the rock more than he loved his dog. He gave it the name of Dequan Demetri IIII. A grin spread across his freckled face he realised if the rock touches your